Options to Fulfill the Foreign Language Requirement

The Master of Arts in History, Liberal Arts Plan A degree at Colorado State University requires students to demonstrate reading knowledge of a foreign language appropriate for the student's historical studies. This requirement may be fulfilled in one of the following ways:

- A test involving translation of one or more passages from the selected language into English. The use of a dictionary is permitted for a written translation. Passages may be chosen by a faculty member of the Colorado State University Department of Foreign Languages, Literatures and Cultures (LLC) or, if appropriate, by a faculty member in the Department of History. Upon satisfactory completion, the Department of LLC will forward a memorandum to the Department of History attesting to the student's linguistic proficiency.
- Completion of a language course.
 - A grade of B or better in a college language course at the second-year level (L 200 series) or above offered by the Colorado State University Department of LLC. Students must also earn a grade of B or better in any first-year level (L 100) courses taken at CSU to meet pre-requisites.
 - A grade of B or better in an upper-division course offered by the Colorado State University Department of LLC on the culture and literature associated with the language selected (L 300, L 400 series). The work in this course must be primarily in the foreign language, not in English.
 - A grade of B or better in a fourth semester (2nd year) college level language course at another academic institution.

A student whose native language is not English may use her/his native language to satisfy the requirement. In accordance with Colorado State University policy, the student will, however, be required to demonstrate his/her proficiency in the English language by means of the TOEFL or other exam accepted by the Graduate School.
