Office Hours: 2-3pm Tuesdays & Thursdays, and by appointment, Clark A-12D

GENERAL INFORMATION

Globalization. We hear this word everywhere, but what exactly does it mean? This course uses the subject of globalization to introduce the field and methods of International Studies. We will explore this subject through assigned readings, written work, group work, lectures and discussion. Our investigation of globalization will revolve around a few basic questions:

- What does globalization mean? When and how did this process begin?
- How can we define such a broad term, and why is its definition useful?
- How does the experience of globalization differ among individuals, groups, and nations?
- What are the benefits and costs of our globalized world? What are its implications for the future?
- Is globalization an automatic process? Can we guide it? How?

Objectives

This course will improve your capacity to:

1. Identify connections among multiple world regions.
2. Articulate key global issues.
3. Demonstrate familiarity with world history and current international affairs.
4. Critically evaluate the ideas and arguments of others as well as one's own views.
5. Effectively communicate ideas and arguments.

This course will enrich your understanding of the world by deepening your knowledge base and broadening your perspective. It will cultivate your awareness of past and present world problems, and help you to appreciate the value of International Studies as an interdisciplinary approach to global subjects. In the process, this course will target critical analysis, creativity, group work, public speaking, discussion, debate, reading, writing, and research.

Readings

Required text (E-book or Print edition): Shawn Smallman and Kimberly Brown, Introduction to International and Global Studies, Second Edition (University of North Carolina Press, 2015)

Additional assigned readings and media will be accessed via the INST 200 Canvas website. Refer to the Class Schedule (below) and/or Canvas for all reading assignments. Reading assignments may be subject to change. If so, the change will be announced in class and via an announcement on Canvas.

ASSIGNMENTS AND EVALUATIONS

Reading Quizzes

Your familiarity with the textbook and other assigned readings will be evaluated through weekly, online essay quizzes treating the readings assigned for a given date and due before class. Essay quizzes are open book and open note, and they usually take 15-20 minutes. I grade these quizzes at random. Together, they constitute 15 percent of your grade.

Participation / Discussion Blog

Your discussion grade constitutes 30 points total (15% of your final grade), which is equivalent to two points per week. You can earn credit by participating in class and by contributing meaningfully to the discussion blogs on Canvas (accessed via 'Discussions' or 'Modules' in the Menu bar). Each post is worth up to two points. Your posts should respond to and/or complement previous student comments. See Canvas for additional instructions and parameters.

International Event Reflection Papers

During the semester, you must attend and reflect on two internationally-themed university events outside of class (talks, panels, films, etc.). Pre-approved events will be listed with a star (*) in the weekly International Studies mailing. You can sign up to receive this mailing here: <https://lists.colostate.edu/cgi-bin/mailman/listinfo/inst-l>. To find out whether another event will qualify, send me an email with a brief description of the event. Your reflection paper should summarize the event, your reaction to it, and what you learned. Each reflection paper should be at least one full page, double-spaced (500-700 words). See Canvas for details.

Assignments

Unless otherwise noted, all assignments should be typed, double-spaced, and formatted with Times or an equivalent font, 12-point font size, and 1-inch margins. References should follow Chicago Manual of Style (CMS) formatting rules. This course requires the following assignments, described on Canvas.

1. Argumentative Essay
2. International Event Reflection Papers (2)
3. Group Presentation Project

Final Exam

The course includes a cumulative final exam. Content will draw on lectures, reading assignments, presentations, in-class work, discussions, and class activities. There are two components to the exam:

- 1) Face-to-face: 10-11am on Wednesday, December 12. Note that this start time differs from the schedule provided by the Registrar. Content: Multiple choice and identifications. No notes, books, or other materials permitted.
- 2) Take-home essay exam: Content provided on the last day of class (Thursday, December 6). Open book and open note.

CLASS POLICIES

Community Guidelines

Please do your part to maintain and promote a respectful, mature learning environment. This includes being sensitive and respectful toward your fellow students, listening actively to other perspectives, and using appropriate language. Your presence in this class signals your agreement to follow CSU's Principles of Community. They are:

- Inclusion: We create and nurture inclusive environments and welcome, value and affirm all members of our community, including their various identities, skills, ideas, talents, and contributions.
- Integrity: We are accountable for our actions and will act ethically and honestly in all our interactions.
- Respect: We honor the inherent dignity of all people within an environment where we are committed to freedom of expression, critical discourse, and the advancement of knowledge.

- Service: We are responsible, individually and collectively, to give of our time, talents, and resources to promote the well-being of each other and the development of our local, regional, and global communities.
- Social Justice: We have the right to be treated and the responsibility to treat others with fairness and equity, the duty to challenge prejudice, and to uphold the laws, policies and procedures that promote justice in all respects.

Students are asked to use electronic devices (smartphones, laptops, and tablets) only for class-related activities such as viewing online readings. Please arrive in class on time and let me know in advance if you need to leave early.

Academic Integrity

It is your responsibility to be familiar with CSU's policy on Academic Integrity. Information regarding this policy can be found here: <https://tilt.colostate.edu/integrity/>. As outlined in this policy, students found responsible for acts of academic dishonesty such as cheating or plagiarism will receive a score of zero on the assignment or evaluation in question, and they may fail the course and face further disciplinary action. In any case of academic dishonesty, the Office of Conflict Resolution and Student Conduct Services will be notified. Hi. This sentence is here just to see if you're paying attention. If you read this sentence before Thursday, August 23, send me an email describing where you found it and you will receive two extra credit points.

In order to ensure that you understand plagiarism and know how to avoid it, you are required to complete the TILT Academic Integrity Quiz (5 points), accessed online at: <http://tilt.colostate.edu/integrity/resourcesStudents/quiz/>, and to report your results to me via the form at the end of the quiz. Citing your sources correctly and completely will help you avoid plagiarism issues. Your references for this course must exhibit proper CMS/MLA citation methods, as presented in Turabian, A Manual for Writers of Research Papers. The CSU Writing Center website provides helpful resources. For CMS citation, see: <https://writing.colostate.edu/guides/guide.cfm?guideid=9>. For plagiarism information, see: <http://writing.colostate.edu/guides/teaching/plagiarism/students.cfm>.
