RECENT POSITION DESCRIPTIONS

Special Assistant Professor of Philosophy & Director of Communications, CSU (August 2016-)

The Director of Communications position was created to enhance the impact of philosophy and a philosophical education for CSU students and our larger campus community. Some of the duties of this position include: managing the department's public relations efforts; working closely with the college's communications team; developing marketing materials; leading recruitment efforts to increase numbers of undergraduate students and incoming first-year students; developing an undergraduate living/learning community to enhance the learning of students interested in philosophy, religions, and related issues; working with the CLA Associate Dean for Undergraduate Studies and relevant campus units to provide leadership for the department's efforts to enhance undergraduate philosophy student success and retention efforts; working with the Academic Support Coordinator (ASC) assigned to the department to integrate faculty mentoring of students with the ASC's advising of first-year and sophomore students; writing and distributing the department's annual newsletter.

Current Projects

Director of Communications

- Attend monthly meetings led by the CLA Communications Director
- Participate in interdisciplinary working groups, e.g., College to Career
- Contribute to the CLA Magazine
 - Spring 2018: "The Case for Limits: One Professor's Take on the Immigration Debate"
 - Winter 2018: "The Meaning of Water: Identity, Place, and Purpose"
- Write and distribute annual department newsletters
- Contribute to department marketing efforts
- Participate in CLA social media initiatives, e.g., Faculty Fridays

Department Website Redesign Chair

- Oversee the redesign and implementation of department website; work closely with department website redesign committee and CLA communications and IT teams to deliver a modern and user-friendly website

Education Abroad Committee

- Work with Education Abroad Director and department representatives to select study abroad experiences best suited to our majors; create webpage that highlights education abroad opportunities for students

Student Recruitment and Retention Coordinator

- Develop and facilitate majors' meetings to address needs and interests of philosophy majors
 - April 2018: Partnered with CLA Career Counselor to facilitate student workshop: "Planning Ahead: Making the Most of your Philosophy Degree"
- Design and distribute philosophy recruitment materials, flyers and e-mails
- Coordinate and attend CSU and CLA recruitment events, such as Ram Welcome
- Attend recruitment workshops and meetings sponsored by the CLA Recruiter
- Identify & submit courses for prospective student visits
- Coordinate first-year living and learning community (through Key Communities) with paired philosophy courses (KEY 192B and PHIL 103) focused on service-learning
- Participate in meetings of the department undergraduate committee
 - Contribute to the reconstruction of major Student Learning Outcomes; develop curricular map for required courses

Semester at Sea Faculty (Fall 2018 voyage)

- Design and teach a course ("The Ethics of Global Poverty") that is tailored to the unique voyage of Semester at Sea
- Design and implement a field class abroad that highlights the course content connections to a port country (collaboration with NGO, Operation Hunger, to serve nutritional and educational needs of children in informal squatter camp in Cape Town, South Africa)
- Participate in faculty meetings and events on the voyage
- Deliver an evening seminar for the shipboard community that highlights academic expertise related to the voyage: "The Ethics of Global Poverty: Why and How We Should Care About (not so) Distant Others"

Director of First Year Experiences, University of Colorado Denver (Jan. 2015-Aug. 2016)

As Director of First Year Experiences, I worked in collaboration with faculty and staff across academic and student affairs units to develop and facilitate innovative interdisciplinary, inter-school/college, and all-campus programs designed to improve student learning, retention, diversity, and success. My primary projects included leadership and management of programs offered through the Office of Undergraduate Experiences (UE) that serve or particularly impact first-year students, such as our First Year Experience seminars and learning communities. Ongoing initiatives included collaboratively developing and directing programs that increase the learning experience and retention of undergraduate students, examples of which include Early Alert, a supplemental instruction program, a transfer-student program parallel to the FYS program, and a seminar program for students on academic probation.

Campus Leadership, CU Denver

Director, First Year Seminar (FYS) program

- Developed and implemented First Year Seminar program consisting in Core Curriculum courses with integrated FYS components, including transition-to-college skills, campus workshops, community events, advising, and integrated skills lessons. Related duties included: recruit, train, and mentor FYS faculty; course development, including Core Curriculum approval, and scheduling; sustain partnerships with campus offices, including Peer Advocate Leadership (PAL) program in Student Life, academic support offices, and Office of Diversity and Inclusion; collaborate with Institutional Research director to gather, analyze, interpret, and present assessment data and revise program accordingly; market FYS program to new students in collaboration with orientation and advising offices; supervise faculty and professional staff; oversee FYS budget and expenditures.
- Taught PHIL 1111, currently offered as “The Life You Can Save: The Ethics of Global Poverty.”
- Designed and implemented new extended orientation course, UNIV 1111: College Success in collaboration with FYS subcommittee. The course focuses exclusively on the transition to university by developing academic skills and strategies, engagement with campus resources, awareness of personal strengths, identity, and motivation, and inclusive behaviors and attitudes in a diverse community setting. Piloted 10 sections in Fall 2016 and recruiting students in need of academic support, first-generation students, and international students.
- Increased FYE offerings for first-year students. Served 480 students in Fall 2015 (with 26 faculty and 17 PALs); building capacity for 700+ students in Fall 2016 (with 40 faculty and 30 PALs).

Co-chair/Founder, First-Year Advisory Council (FYAC)

Co-chaired faculty, staff, and administrative group to collaborate and improve upon all aspects of the first-year student experience, from admission to persistence to second year.

Chair, Learning Communities (LC) Steering Committee

Lead team of academic and student affairs professionals, including associate deans, advisors, academic coordinators, faculty, and student life staff, to research, develop, implement, expand, and assess learning communities program on campus.

High Impact Practices (HIP) Taskforce

- Participated in UE-sponsored campus dialogue on best practices in implementing and assessing high impact practices, including FYS, LC, service learning, undergraduate research, global learning, writing intensive classes, and collaborative learning. Worked collaboratively to transform CU Denver into a HIP campus, in conjunction with NASH and AAC&U initiatives.
- Lead subcommittees on two HIPs (FYE and LC) and report work to the HIP Taskforce.
- HIP Grant Advisory Board. Designed and reviewed faculty grants to integrate HIPs into courses and degree plans; guide faculty groups through semester and year-long HIP projects.
- Co-chaired Undergraduate Experiences Symposium with keynote speaker George Kuh.

Academic Integrity (AI) Taskforce

- Participated on taskforce with associate deans, faculty, and staff from undergraduate schools/colleges and Graduate School to develop and implement common AI policy.

- Served as primary editor of AI policy and procedures to reflect campus consensus.
- Collaborated with AVC for Undergraduate Experiences and Director of Student Conduct and Community Standards to refine policy, procedures, and committee bylaws to standardize AI processes in consultation with legal team and policy experts in Provost's Office.
- Worked with campus constituents to move toward implementation of common policy and procedures, including the development of new online resources and reporting forms.
- Planned strategy for increasing faculty and student awareness of AI policies.

Early Alert

Facilitated Early Alert program by supporting and communicating effectively with faculty, advisors, and campus offices regarding participation in initiative; collaborated with software partner to effectively deliver program to campus community; assessed effectiveness of program; present assessment data and foster campus dialogue regarding program direction.

Faculty Coordinator, Learning Communities and First Year Success, MSU Denver (2011-2015)

Learning Communities and First Year Success at MSU Denver offers integrated and paired academic learning communities, peer mentorship, supplemental instruction, a common reading experience, and targeted events for academic growth and community building. I crafted the FYS faculty coordinator position to best serve and support the 100+ faculty teaching in the program each year. My initiatives included: faculty orientations, semester-specific resource guides, monthly newsletters, For Faculty, By Faculty Workshop series, faculty strategy sessions, co-creation of a first-year seminar, co-facilitation of a faculty learning community, and expansion of the common reading program in conjunction with the campus-wide program, 1 Book/1 Project/2 Transform.

Notable Accomplishments

- Co-created and piloted a new general studies course for first year students, Communication in Action, focused on social change and service learning.
- Co-developed and implemented the For Faculty, By Faculty workshop series. Offered six workshops in 2013-14 featuring undergraduate research, writing expectations, universal design for learning, and technology in the classroom.
- Revitalized the service-based 1 Book/1 Project/2 Transform program by increasing faculty and student participation. In 2013-2014, the program has grown exponentially to include approximately 37 learning communities, 25 faculty, and 750 students.
- Selected and brought nationally known speakers to campus: Rebecca Cox (author of The College Fear Factor) and Constance Staley (author of Teaching College Success).
- In conjunction with the Excellence in Equity initiative, invited Eduardo Bonilla-Silva (Duke University), author of Racism without Racists, to campus for faculty workshop on cultural competency in the classroom (held April 2015).
