

Clayton Jack Lovelace

7038 Avondale Road

Fort Collins, CO 80525

Home: (970) 266-9710

E-mail: jack.lovelace@colostate.edu

Education:

Bachelor of Science, Journalism, University of Missouri, Columbia, MO., 1969

Master of Science Degree, Technical Communications, Colorado State University, Fort Collins, CO., Fall 2002

Academic/Teaching Experience:

Since 2001, typically teaching three classes fall and spring at Colorado State University School of Journalism, as well as classes in the summer. Fulltime instructor appointment 2002-2003, then again 2005-2009, Colorado State University, School of Journalism, advising 30 students enrolled in the school. Currently teaching and managing JT 300, Professional Communications, lecturing 125-student class and managing five teach assistants assigned to the course.

Adjunct Professor, Jefferson County Community College, Hillsboro, MO., instructor for Introductory Course in Journalism, 1978-1982

Teaching Evaluations, CSU Activities:

Consistent top evaluations. Numerous requests and success in helping students with internships and job opportunities. Included in top three teachers in campus wide top teacher ratings two years consecutively conducted by student newspaper. Superior rating in past department evaluations.

Courses Taught:

- LBCC 192 Seminar, Free Speech: How to Use it Well
- JT 210 News writing
- JT 300 Technical Communications (for non-journalism majors)
- JT 320 Reporting
- JT 351 Public Relations Practices
- JT 361 Specialized Magazine Writing
- JT 411 Media Ethics
- JT 690 Advanced Writing (Denver graduate program)

- VM 780 Writing for Veterinarians

Research Interests:

Completed thesis, "Newspapers Online: Assessing Economics, Contents and Identity Issues". Presented at Toronto conference by co-author Kirk Hallahan.

Journalism Experience:

- 1999 – Present
Teaching a variety of journalism courses in the Department of Journalism and Technical Communications at Colorado State University
- 1999 – 2001
Writer for Isis Marketing and Northern Colorado Business Report in Fort Collins, Colorado
- 1988 – 1999
Sun Publications in Overland Park, Kansas
Initially edited a weekly newsmagazine for a year prior to becoming the editor of an award winning bi-weekly newspaper. Supervisory responsibilities included a staff of seventeen. While an editor at the Sun, I continued to write entertainment features, editorials and columns
- 1970 – 1988
Reporter for the Jefferson County News Democrat. Progressed to editor, as the paper became part of the Suburban Newspapers, Inc. Supervised a staff of twenty-three employees for an award winning publication. Wrote numerous news and feature stories and continued writing after becoming the editor. Also worked in radio public affairs.

References:

- Garrett O'Keefe, Department of Journalism and Technical Communications, Colorado State University, Fort Collins, Colorado 80523, (970) 491-3703
- Kirk Hallahan, Associate Professor, Department of Journalism and Technical Communications, Colorado State University, Fort Collins, Colorado 80523, (970) 491-3963
- Greg Luft, Chair, Associate Professor, Department of Journalism and Technical Communications, Colorado State University, Fort Collins, Colorado 80523, (970) 491-1979

