DIVERSITY & INCLUSION

IN RESEARCH AND TEACHING

COLLEGE OF LIBERAL ARTS
COLORADO STATE UNIVERSITY

Updated July, 2020

College of Liberal Arts Research and Teaching

This document lists the faculty in CLA whose academic research explicitly addresses diversity, inclusion, equity, and social justice. It also lists faculty and instructors who teach courses that explicitly focus on diversity and inclusion topics as identified by the course title and catalog description.

Research areas were identified through the faculty bios posted on CSU profile pages as of February, 2020. Teaching areas were identified through CSU records and the catalog. Not all instructors who teach D&I-related courses do research in these areas, and not all those who research these areas teach courses with D&I content in the title/description.

Note that courses that integrate diversity and inclusion into content but do not have titles or descriptions that explicitly mention these are not listed here. However, many courses not listed do have substantial content addressing diversity and inclusion, depending on the instructor and semester it was taught. Therefore, this list should not be understood as a comprehensive list of all courses that include D&I content.

Overall, nearly 250 instructors either teach or conduct research on D&I issues, and 58 do both.

Instructor List

This section lists the individual faculty and instructors who have taught or conducted research that explicitly addresses diversity and inclusion. It includes the academic research areas, the general categories of diversity & inclusion addressed in research, and relevant courses taught for each instructor as applicable.
